OLD-TIME FISHING.

Plantation Pleasures—Coon Hunting in the Coon Season.

"Gilt up, boss, ef yo's gwine wid me to de fish baskets," cried Morris, and I flung myself out of bed in a jiffy and was soon tramping along with Morris, watching the purple semicircle of darkness as it slowly faded in the west, fringed with a border of crimson and gold where the first rays of the rising sun struggled with the departing night. Low down on the verge of the western horizon, burned with brightness, intensified by such contrasts, a single star, glowing and twinkling as if it were the last champion of the flying legions of Erebus bidding defiance to Aurora's gilded throng.

"Don't you catch 'possums now?" I asked of Morris.

"Mos' to ealy in de season, sah. But wen de 'simmon leas tu'n red, an' de yallar spots come in de tatak, patch, an' pindah bunches tu'n brown, an' de cane patches look des es blue as de sky, den de 'possum-huntin' time begin."

Just then we entered the swamp and passed under a tangle of vines from which hung, in purple lusciousness, the great clusters of Muscadines. The old tree had grown to a prodigious height, but the vine had run up to the top, and above its topmost bow a tender twig of the vine waved to and fro like a banner, while a big yellow-brown goshawk perched himself on the topmost branch of the tree, and with its outspread wings fronting the rising sun, he seemed glorified by the blaze of light, and then saucy little bee-martins tried in vain to worry him into a recognition of their noisy presence.

Roll on, roll on, thou royal river! With thy yellow waters murmuring low; Now smooth, now rough; By bank and bluff; On to the Gulf of Mexico.

Between two solid walls of vivid green flows the current of the dashing Thronateeska. The yellow sand-banks and dusky coves just suffice to break the mighty monotony of the grand sweep of its yellow current. A blue kingfisher with a top-knot as far out of proportion to his size as the tall, plumed cap of the Georgia militia man, sat dreaming on a dead branch that reached far out above the water. His bright eye caught a glance of our approaching forms, and, with a spiteful screech, he flew further up stream. I looked in vain for any intimation of a fish basket.

"I believe dey's er basket tied out dar," said Morris, as he peered out among a mass of willows and drift-wood that had accumulated in an eddy, "see dat vine out thar?" I looked but saw nothing unusual. Right at my feet he stooped down and began to untie a bull-bait vine that was tied in such a way as to deceive any one but an expert. Then he began drawing it out of the water, and at length the long basket came to the surface and we knew by the flapping that it was full of cat fish. You may suppose that I am going into details as to how many we took from it, their size, and so on; but I am not going to do it. I'll have Morris to tell you how the basket is made, though.

"Yo' see, boss, we des takes some long, white oak splits, 'bout five feet long, an' den we takes some thin splits to weave 'em togedder. We has 'nuff splits ter make de basket 'bout er foot frough. By weavin' er roun' an' roun' we gits de basket made. Den we close de lower een' wid a piece of plank, so es we can untie it an' git de fish out. For de upper een' we make er funnel-shape consarn which we fits in de basket, wid de small een' not quite close up, p'intin' innards. Den we baits in wid years ob co'n, pea-bread, an' co'n bread, an' udder t'ings which easy to sour, an' den we frowers her in wid plenty ob sinkers. De fish comes in frough de little hole, an' den can't fin' dey way out no mo', and so we has 'em safe an' soun'."

Long time I stood and gazed out upon the stream. I thought how the screech of the steam engine would soon startle the sleeping echoes, and how the ruthless rattle of the saw-mill machinery would frighten away the wool nymphs as the gigantic bodies of these great trees were converted into broad planks and huge beams.

"Dem fellahs wid de dredge boat done broke up de bes' fishin' groun's," said Morris, as he strung the catfish on a willow wand. "Yes," thought I, "and soon the clatter and din of the wheels of progress will take the place of the wild noises of the forest birds, and these mighty forests will melt away before the dawning light of the new regime."

A Novel Stage Jump.

In a play now running in Boston an actor leaps headlong from the walls of a prison into apparent water. He actually falls twenty-three feet clear in the sight of the audience. The device by which he escapes injury is ingenious. A canvas cone is fixed under the stage with its large end even with the stage, which is arranged to represent water. The rubber cloth is cut across in its center, the cuts reaching half way from the center to edge. The ring or edge of this circle is hung on thick rubber springs. As the cone narrows to its apex three other rings are disposed at proper intervals, covered with a netting that easily breaks, affording only slight resistance. Now, when the head-foremost leap is made, the leaper covers first twenty-three feet of clear space unresisted. He then strikes the center of the diaphragm, and the rubber cloth, partially giving way, still offers some resistance, and, clinging around his shoulders, retards his progress without harming him at all. The next, and the next, and still the next, or last ring in turn offer enough resistance to check the fall, until the apex of the cone, by its narrowing, holds the diver in a close embrace about the shoulders, with his head protruding from the opening. Thus far the diver has not hurt himself.—(Exchange.)

EDITORIAL NOTES

In his draft of the concurrent resolution relative to the inter-State Commerce bill, Senator Harris of Douglas county, refers to Congressman Woodburn as "our Representative in Congress." As Lieutenant Derby said of himself while editing the San Diego Herald; unless Mr. Woodburn has a tape-worm, there is but one of him. The resolution also "instructs" our member of the lower branch of Congress, a thing which it has no right to do, for while Senators may be instructed it is only proper to "request" Representatives.

The February number of Scribner's Magazine, of which 125,000 copies have been ordered as a first edition, will contain a most interesting article, by Mr John C. Ropes upon the "Likeness of Julius Caesar," with 18 portraits, one of which, engraved by W. B. Closson, will be the frontispiece of the number. A new story is begun in the same number, by F. J. Stimson (J. S. of Dale), entitled, "The Residuary Legatee." The second installment of ex-Minister Washburne's "Reminiscences of the Siege and Commune of Paris" is of the greatest interest, describing as it does the most interesting phases of the siege.

About 15 minutes later, a car of the Sutter street line was coming down hill and as it crossed Mason street the strikers sallied forth with sticks and stones and attacked the conductor and grip-man and passengers, on the dummy. One of the passengers was dealt a heavy blow on the head with an iron bar, cutting a deep gash in the scalp, which bled profusely. Democratic Love Feast.

COLUMBUS, O., January 7.

The fourth annual banquet and celebration of the 8th of January, under the auspices of the Jackson Club, was held at the city building last night. The stage bore large-size pictures of the hero of New Orleans, Thurman, Tilden and President Cleveland. Four tables extended lengthwise of the room, and covers were turned for 350. Judge Allen G. Thurman, who was the living hero of the evening, was received with much demonstration, and in answer to the toast—"The Union, the common heritage of the people"—said, "We have assembled to-night to do what we can to re-invigorate the fundamental principles of our party; to bring about as far as possible a unity of sentiment and of action; to renew our devotion of the union of States and to gather inspiration from the example and teachings of great men, whose valor and whose virtues we this night celebrate, and what better homage can we pay to him, who fought, when a child, to anchor our independence; who fought when a man, to maintain and preserve it, and who, when at the head of the government at a dangerous crisis of our country's history, uttered the ever memorable sentiment—"The Union, it must and shall be maintained," than to declare as we do in the toast just read, that the Union is the common heritage of patriots. Yes Mr. President, it is so and it ought to be so. Men may have been misguided and gone wrong in the past, but whatever may be a man's history, if he is to-day and means to be in the future, a devoted friend of the Union, that Union is a part of his heritage.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, January 8.

Representative Reagan went to Texas this morning to take an active part in the Senatorial contest. He will remain away for about two weeks, and in the meantime the conduct of his Inter-State Commerce bill—if the conference report is agreed to in the Senate—will be left in the hands of Grier, of Georgia, the third member of the House conferees, Weaver of Nebraska, being also at home looking after his Senatorial prospects.

Brevet Brigadier, General Thomas Duncan of the United States army, died yesterday afternoon after a short illness, at his residence in this city. During the war of the rebellion General Duncan was struck on the head by a cannon-ball and a portion of his skull was knocked off. Trepanning was resorted to, and for more than 20 years he has worn a silver plate, which took the place of the abstracted portion of his shattered skull.

Powderly Endorsed.

DENVER, January 8.

The annual meeting of District No. 82, Knights of Labor, embracing every town touched by the main line or branches of the Union Pacific railway company, which has been in session here since Sunday, yesterday passed resolutions endorsing every action taken by Grand Master Workman Powderly in settling the Southwestern and Chicago strikes, as well as his views regarding the trades unions. The convention pledged its members to stand by Mr. Powderly in his work, and pronounces him one of the greatest statesmen of the age.

Machine Shops Burned.

SPRINGFIELD, January 8.

This morning the Ohio Southern railroad machine shops caught fire by the explosion of a torch in the round house, and is now a mass of ruins. Six locomotives and two cars of valuable machinery, and the buildings were destroyed. Loss, $140,000; fully insured.

Convicted of Conspiracy.

NEW HAVEN, January 8.

In the City Court this morning, Judge Pickett rendered a decision in the case of Wm. H. Wallace, assistant Superintendent of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroads, and Stacy B. Opdyke, Superintendent of the New Haven & Northwestern railroad, accused of conspiracy by Thos. F. Meany, who charged them with blacklisting him. The accused were fined $50 each. They will appeal from the decision.

The Judge in his decision said he was clearly of the opinion that a conspiracy designed to hinder any man from putting his labor on the market, when, where and for such compensation as he may agree for, is equally criminal with any conspiracy designed to hinder in the sale of merchandise, or any producer or dealer, and is more disastrous in effect than any other form of conspiracy, except that to take life. To convict of such conspiracy, circumstantial evidence is competent, and may be conclusive. It is sufficient if it is shown that the parties had a mutual understanding to a common design, a part of which each was to perform in the attainment thereof. The court is satisfied that Wallace and Opdyke had a mutual understanding.

Honey Lake News.

JANESVILLE, Cal., January 5.

Editor Gazette:—The weather has been very fine for the past few weeks, and a large amount of plowing done.

Considerable property has changed hands in this vicinity. In addition to sales formerly noticed, T. M. Barham sold his ranch of 230 acres to A. J. Spoon for $4,800.

G. W. Meylert held an auction sale of horses, cattle, wagons and buggies to-day. Everything offered sold at fair prices.

Owing to the low price of beef, Jacob McKissick will turn out some of the cattle he has been feeding at the Tules, and put them on the range again.

Several more real estate transactions are on the tapis, the result of which I will duly notice.

One of the New Sleepers.

The new C. P. sleeper "San Mateo," in charge of that gentlemanly and accommodating porter J. W. Kindred, passed east this morning. Aside from a few private cars, it is without exception the finest this reporter has ever seen on the Central Pacific. There is a neat hammock for the reception of clothing, in each berth; the upholstery and wood work is very fine, and the drawing room and smoker are simply gorgeous.

A Colonization Scheme.

A movement is on foot at Los Angeles, in which a number of San Francisco capitalists are said to be interested, to colonize an extensive tract of land in Soda Lake district, a mining section, 40 miles east of Barstow Station on the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad. The company has secured 400,000 acres of desert land, with water rights over a number of springs and winter streams. A railroad from Barstow is to be constructed.

Nicknames for Oregonians and How They Obtained Them.

The origin of "Webfeet," which is applied to inhabitants of Oregon, needs no explanation to people generally. All who have been permitted to enjoy(?) a winter season in the Willamette Valley readily perceive the appropriateness of such a cognomen for people who must wade or swim from place to place, but why they are often dubbed "Lop-ears," is not so commonly understood. Mr. Bancroft, in his fifth volume of the History of Oregon, reflects satisfactory light on this question. There is a tradition that the Spaniards, in their early expeditions along the Oregon coast, met a tribe of Indians with ears of extreme length weighed down by heavy ornaments and from this circumstance the Spaniards called them "Long-ears" or "Lop-ears." This theory became so popular in the mining times of 1848-9, that the Oregonians went by the name "Lop-ears" among Californian miners. "Indeed," says Mr. Bancroft, "I suspect this opportunity to ridicule their obtruding neighbors, proving too good to be lost, really first gave currency to the idea."

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with "Green's August Flower" and "Rosche's German Syrup," as the reduction of 30 cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The "August Flower" for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the "German Syrup" for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.

Their Only Medicine Chest.

DEERLODGE, Mont., Dec. 16, 1885. I have been using Brandreth's Pills for the last 13 years, and though I have had nine children, I have never had a doctor in the house, except three times, when we had an epidemic of scarlet fever, which we soon banished by a vigorous use of Brandreth's Pills. I have used them for myself, two or three a night for a month, for liver complaint, dyspepsia, and constipation. In diarrhoea, cramps, wind colic, indigestion, one or two Brandreth's Pills fixed the children at once. A box of pills is all the medicine chest we require in the house. We use them for rheumatism, colds, catarrh, biliousness, and impure blood. They never have failed to cure all the above complaints in a very few days.

WILLIAM H. MILLER.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

The Senatorial Question and Other Matters.

CARSON CITY, January 7. The Nevada Legislature has closed the first week of its labors. The members have taken a respite from their arduous duties and adjourned until Monday, preparatory to electing Hon. Wm. M. Stewart to the United States Senate on the following day. The Democracy will undoubtedly confer the empty honor of a nomination for the same position on Hon. George W. Cassidy, although the names of Governor Jewett W. Adams, A. C. Ellis and would-be-Congressman MacMillan are mentioned as possibilities. In my telegrams yesterday, I stated that the fight in the Democratic caucus between Cassidy and MacMillan stood seven to seven. You were the only paper in the State to first publish that information. To-day I add the vote, as it will naturally prove interesting. They are for Cassidy: Briggs, Westerfield, Harris, Hardesty, Rice, Pike and Wiseman. For MacMillan: Osborn, Pierce, Ward, McConnell, Alt, Lemery and Griffin. As will be seen, all the Washoe delegation are against the candidacy of Cassidy, while it is generally understood here that they had been in very CLOSE CONSULTATIONS. With "Gentleman George" for weeks past to accomplish the defeat of Stewart. Notwithstanding the breach of faith, Cassidy will be on the field Monday next, when his party will caucus again, and if some gentlemen in your county do not "stand in," there will be considerable mud-throwing in the Democratic camp. Apropos of this I might add that Senator Stewart is more liable to receive 45 than 34 votes when the Legislature meets in joint session Tuesday next. The Democracy caucused, however, again to-day, but failed to agree on their choice for Senator, action on that subject being deferred until Monday. They did not adjourn, however, without passing a series of resolutions that will be telegraphed Senators Jones and Fair by the time this reaches you, condemnatory of the President's action in appointing C. W. Irish Surveyor General of the State of Nevada. They speak in no unmistakable terms of the Executive's open violation of the National platform and avow as they did while endeavoring to besmirch the character of

HON. W. M. STEWART. Very strongly in favor of home rule, and unanimously appeal to the two gentlemen now representing you in the Senate of the United States to oppose the confirmation of Mr. Irish. The writer knew long ago that Senator Jones did decide to do so of his own volition; but what a strange state of affairs, nobody knows how Senator Fair stands on the proposition. So in order to leave him without an excuse, the chosen representatives of his party, and those who believe in its principles being carried out, even by the President himself, will to-day per telegram, make known their declarations. "Consistency" they say "does not characterize the action of the Chief Magistrate, and that because the newly appointed Surveyor General has a brother in San Francisco editing a newspaper which goes largely out of its way to pay undue homage to Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland, is no justification for the foisting of an IOWAIAN. On the citizens of Nevada. We would much prefer the present incumbent. We have plenty of material, talent and native character in many of our Democratic citizens to fill all the requirements of that office, and are utterly opposed to carpet-baggers taking possession of the offices we fought so long and honestly to win. This is a Democratic side-battle, but augurs well for Republican success in both State and Nation in 1888. Beyond the consideration of these all-important topics—topics that will disappear from the horizon after Tuesday's sun has gone down beyond the broad Pacific—very little, if anything beyond the introduction of bills, etc., has been accomplished.

A Chance for Health. Is afforded those fast sinking into a condition of hopeless debility. The means are at hand. In the form of a genial medicinal cordial, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters embodies the combined qualities of a blood purifier and a potent, a tonic and an alterative. While it promotes digestion and assimilation, and stimulates appetite, has the further effect of purifying the life current and strengthening the nervous system. As the blood grows richer and purer by its use, they who resort to this sterling medicinal agent, acquire not only vigor, but bodily substance. A healthful change in the secretions is effected by it, and that sure and rapid physical decay which a chronic obstruction of the functions of the system produces, is arrested. The prime cause of disease being removed, health is speedily renovated and vigor restored.

Governor Stevenson's Mine. The strike at Galena in Governor Stevenson's mine is not as good as it looked at first, as the ore only assays $12 or $13 a ton. It concentrates well, however, and he will get out a few hundred tons to run through the mill and send the concentrates to Reno. He can mine it for $1 a ton, and run it down a track to the mill which will work it for $1 50 a ton.

Information Wanted. The County Superintendent requests the school Trustees of the different districts in the county to forward to his office, the necessary notices of their election or appointment, otherwise no warrants will be allowed.

A BAD LAW.

A Justice Who Has an Eye to Business.

BATTLE MOUNTAIN, January 7. Editor Gazette:—Allow me to publish through your valuable paper a few facts and views regarding the law allowing bounty paid for the killing of noxious animals in the State of Nevada. I wish to give some facts and reasons why the law is bad, believing that if the matter is properly presented to the present Legislature the matter will be taken in hand and the law either repealed or amended. It is claimed that the DESTRUCTION OF COYOTES. And wild cats is a greater evil than good, even to stock-raisers, as in proportion as these noxious animals are destroyed, rabbits are suffered to increase, which damage the stock, raising almost as much as the coyote and wild cats; besides rabbits damage the raisers of grain as much or more than the noxious animals do the stock, so the law in my opinion had better be repealed altogether. But if not repealed it should be amended: First, the law should require the ears to be destroyed by the Board of County Commissioners instead of the Justice who gives the certificate. And second, no Justice should be allowed to give more than one certificate to

THE SAME CLAIMANT. During the same month, Lander county is paying on an average of $150 per month bounty money and Justice's fees, the Board of County Commissioners allowing the Justice to make as many certificates as animals killed, making the county pay $1 for each coyote and $1 50 for each wild cat killed. Not only in Lander county, but the Justice at Battle Mountain is giving certificates, and the Board is allowing claims, month after month for scalps brought from Fallside, Carlin, Elko and as far east as Wells; and the only excuse for this violation of the law by the Commissioners, is that it is the instruction of

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY. The law is plain, and explicit, that no Justice, District Attorney or County Commissioner need err. The Justice shall give a certificate stating the number of scalps, for which he shall be entitled to 50 cents. No other District Attorney, no other Board of County Commissioners and no Justice of the Peace, except in Lander, is charging the county more than 50 cents for certifying to a claim, though a dozen may be presented at one time. Lander is BEING ROBBED; More than $200 have been allowed the last month under this so-called "good law." It should be respected, but if not, it should be amended. Our Justice at Battle Mountain is drawing more money from Lander's treasury, as near as can be figured from correspondence with other counties, than all the other Justices in the State, and three times as much as the other three Justices in Lander, and the tax-payers here are becoming anxious over the matter.

A. E. SCOTT. At the Theater. Pollard & Upson will give their regular weekly dance at the Theater this evening. The Phono Lancers Quadrille String Band, under the leadership of Professor Smith, late of Hall & Zimmer's band of Virginia, will furnish the music. The "Pretty Blue Eyes" schottische will be among the music of the evening.

It is wise to provide against emergencies that are liable to arise in every family. A cold may be a dangerous thing, or not, depending upon the means at hand to combat it. In sudden attacks of cold, croup, asthma, etc., Ayer's Cherry-Pectoral will prove the quickest and most effective cure, and your best friend.

DYSPEPSIA.

Sedentary habits, mental worry, nervous excitement, excess of imprudence in eating or drinking, and various other causes induce Constipation followed by general derangement of the liver, kidneys, and stomach, in which the disorder of each organ increases the infirmity of the others. The immediate results are Loss of Appetite, Nausea, Foul Breath, Heartburn, Flatulence, Dizziness, Sick Headaches, failure of physical and mental vigor, distressing sense of weight and fullness in the stomach, and increased Costiveness, all of which are known under one head as Dyspepsia. In every instance where this disease does not originate from scrofulous taint in the blood, AYER'S PILLS may be confidently relied upon to effect a cure. These pills not amenable to the curative influence of AYER'S PILLS alone will certainly yield if the PILLS are aided by the powerful blood-purifying properties of AYER'S SASSAPARILLA. Dyspepsia should know that the longer treatment of their malady is postponed, the more difficult of cure it becomes.

Ayer's Pills

Never fail to relieve the bowels and promote their healthy and regular action, and thus cure all diseases of the bowels. Temporary ailments all do permanent harm. The vital activity into which the enfeebled stomach is spurred by "bitters," and alcoholic stimulants, is inevitably followed by reaction that leaves the organ weaker than before. "Costiveness, induced by my sedentary habits of life, became chronic. Ayer's Pills afforded me speedy relief. Their occasional use has since kept me all right." HERMAN B. TINGHOFF, Newark, N. J. "I was induced to try AYER'S PILLS as a remedy for Indigestion, Constipation, and Headache, from which I had long been a sufferer. I found their action easy, and obtained prompt relief. They have benefited me more than all the medicines ever before tried." M. V. WATSON, 163 State St., Chicago, Ill. "They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and vastly improved my general health." REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, Atlanta, Ga. "The most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. One does not feel any more my bowels and free my head from pain." W. L. PAGE, Richmond, Va. "A sufferer from Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, and Neuralgia for the last twenty years, AYER'S PILLS have benefited me more than any medicine I have ever taken." F. H. ROGERS, Needmore, Broken Co., Ind. "For Dyspepsia they are invaluable." J. T. HATES, Meza, Texas.

A GEORGIAN'S HOBBY.

Sleeping among Grinning Skulls,
Mummified Limbs, Etc.

There is a gentleman in Macon whose business is that of a book-keeper, but his duties are such that his services are only required for five hours every morning. This arrangement leaves him with all the night and more than half the day to use for himself. He is a bachelor, and I may say right here that he has been on the bachelors' list for a number of years.

He has a passion for corpses, broken limbs, cuts, bruises, and mashes. He will sit up with a corpse all night, simply for the opportunity to gaze upon the ghastly face and study the immovable features. His room is a museum of grinning skulls, mummified hands and feet, bits of rope from murderers' gibbets, bullets dug out of flesh, splinters from dreadful railway collisions, empty bottles that once contained suicides' poisons, and numberless other things that have been collected from time to time from coroners, medical colleges, and everywhere. His library consists of works on death, poisons, insanity, etc., besides such dramas as "Lucretia Borgia," etc.

The bedstead is the main feature of the room, and how any man could sleep a night on it and not wake up a howling maniac is more than I can imagine. The headboard is a small gallows, and reaches within a few inches of the ceiling. From the cross-bar hangs the rope, the noose of which hangs within reach of the sleeper. It serves to draw up or let down the mosquito netting. The footboard of the bedstead is in imitation of a guillotine, and to make the imitation more perfect, a basket of skulls is placed just under the knife. A more horrible resting-place than this bed I never saw.

His room is in the heart of the business portion of the city, and yet he allows no one but himself to enter it, not even his most intimate friends. One night his mosquito netting caught fire and aroused him. Seeing the blaze, and forgetting his ghastly measures, he raised the window and called for help. I was passing by and responded. The fire was put out and I stood before him, the only person who had ever seen the interior of his curious room.

I felt as if I stood within the regions Dante had so fearfully portrayed. When the excitement of the fire had subsided, I looked around me and stood speechless, paralyzed. He swore me to secrecy, and I kissed, almost unconsciously, a white skull, upon the polished frontal bone of which was written the Lord's Prayer. Then he showed me everything he had, and kept up a running lecture with each article, just as Mr. Anthony shows and describes to me the different varieties of grapes. Reaching down into the basket of skulls he brought one up and said:—"This is the skull of a man who, in life, did you a great wrong."

I looked at the thing, and the teeth seemed to grin at me and the eye-sockets grew larger. "I forgive him! I forgive him!" I cried, and rushed from the room. Who the man was I do not know, but if he had wronged me beyond eternal redemption I would forgive him freely. That was two or three years ago, and my eccentric friend no doubt has added much to his diabolical collection and, most probably, the skulls of mine enemies.—[Macon Messenger.

Gems of Thought.

Occupation is a necessity of the young. They love to be busy about something, however trifling, and if not directed to some useful employment will soon engage in something that is evil, thus verifying the old proverb that "idleness is the mother of mischief."—[Temple.

The philosopher and lover of man has much harm to say of trade; but the historian will see that trade was the principle of liberty; that trade planted America and destroyed feudalism; that it makes peace and keeps peace.—[Emerson.

Where no danger shows,
Don't suppose you know more

Unnecessary Misery.

Probably as much misery comes from habitual constipation as from any derangement of the functions of the body, and it is difficult to cure, for the reason that no one likes to take the medicines usually prescribed. Hamburg Pile were prepared to obviate this difficulty, and they will be found pleasant to the taste of women and children. Twenty-five cents. At all druggists. J. J. Mack & Co., proprietors, &c.
